Dear Sisters, Brothers, and Children in Jesus Christ,

Mark 7:34 says, 'Jesus looked up to heaven and with a deep sigh said, "Ephphata" (Be opened!). Today most people do not have time to hear what others are saying, for there is so much noise around them. Moreover, we have no time to listen. Today, we seem to have more people who want to talk rather than to listen. Yet, Jesus repeatedly said, "Let those who have ears to hear, let them listen" (Matthew 11:15). If only everyone in the world pays attention to every other person around them, what an amount of understanding, unity and harmony would prevail in our families and in our communities!

First of all, we should understand that hearing does not necessarily make anybody listen. Hearing is a physiological function. We call it audition, one of the areas of sensation. While hearing is with ears, listening is not with ears alone, but perhaps is more with our hearts and minds. In other words, listening is a cognitive function of the mind. And at a spiritual level, it occurs within our hearts.

Listening is not just to the words that people utter. It is also to what is not spoken. Silence communicates often much more powerfully than words. The nonverbal language often gets bypassed in interpersonal relationships because of which many a friendship is lost.

Listening further presupposes the need for openness. In that sense it is an attitude. It is a mentality. It is a lifestyle. Many lives have been shattered merely because of the absence of this lifestyle. I tend to think that divorces are ever increasing in a society primarily because spouses fail to listen. Let's make listening our lifestyle. Let's take Jesus' command seriously: 'Ephphata' – Be opened. God bless us all to be opened all the time.

Yours in Christ Jesus,
Fr. C. P. Varghese
Pastor
